BambooHR hiring team

Product Designer

I am applying for the Product Designer role at BambooHR. HR software has to get out of the way of people doing the actual work. The design job is a flow they can finish inside a system they already know, a visual UI that follows that system, and a clear line for where AI should act and where a person still decides.

At Entrata I spent seven years on that kind of software, for the people who run a building. When we redesigned how staff create rental promotions, usability testing showed they already used the existing Pricing pattern as the map. We extended that system instead of shipping a one-off. After launch, 8,290 specials used the new targeting rules.

I have also designed AI where the record has to be right. An income-document flow turned a long affordable-housing certification into an upload a person could still review. Hundreds of teams entered that work, and we won Most Likely to Land a New Logo. A separate upload shows mapping confidence and waits for a person before anything is written. I use AI in my own process for synthesis, prototyping, and the spec.

I have not designed HR software. I have designed for professionals who are underwater in coordination work, and I am used to working inside a design system with product and engineering. I live in Pleasant Grove, so a Utah hybrid week is a drive I can make. I would welcome the chance to walk you through the work.

Sincerely,
Cody Duke
